EVERYTHING

YOU NEED

The all new Himalayan is an extension of that, taking everything that was great about the original and building on it. Nothing has been added without necessity. There are no features included simply to satisfy the keyboard warriors. The new Himalayan is about purpose, simplicity, efficiency; just like the original, but more.

We know what it means to grab a bike and go for a blast with some friends, just as we know how it feels to be cold, tired and with another three hours of riding laying ahead. The Himalayan is designed to adapt to all conditions; from its river-busting high air intake to its tough frame and luggage bars ready to take a beating when things don't go as planned.

BUILT FOR ALL ROADS.
BUILT FOR NO ROADS.

Capable but not intimidating; that has been the ethos of the Himalayan from the start. So it was crucial when developing the new model to keep that in mind - for all the improvements to power, performance and handling, the Himalayan is still an easy, forgiving bike to ride. Superb balance at low speed, combined with the new light-action clutch and smooth throttle response from the Ride by Wire system make easy work of tight trails and tight traffic alike.

MORE POWER TO THE PEAKS

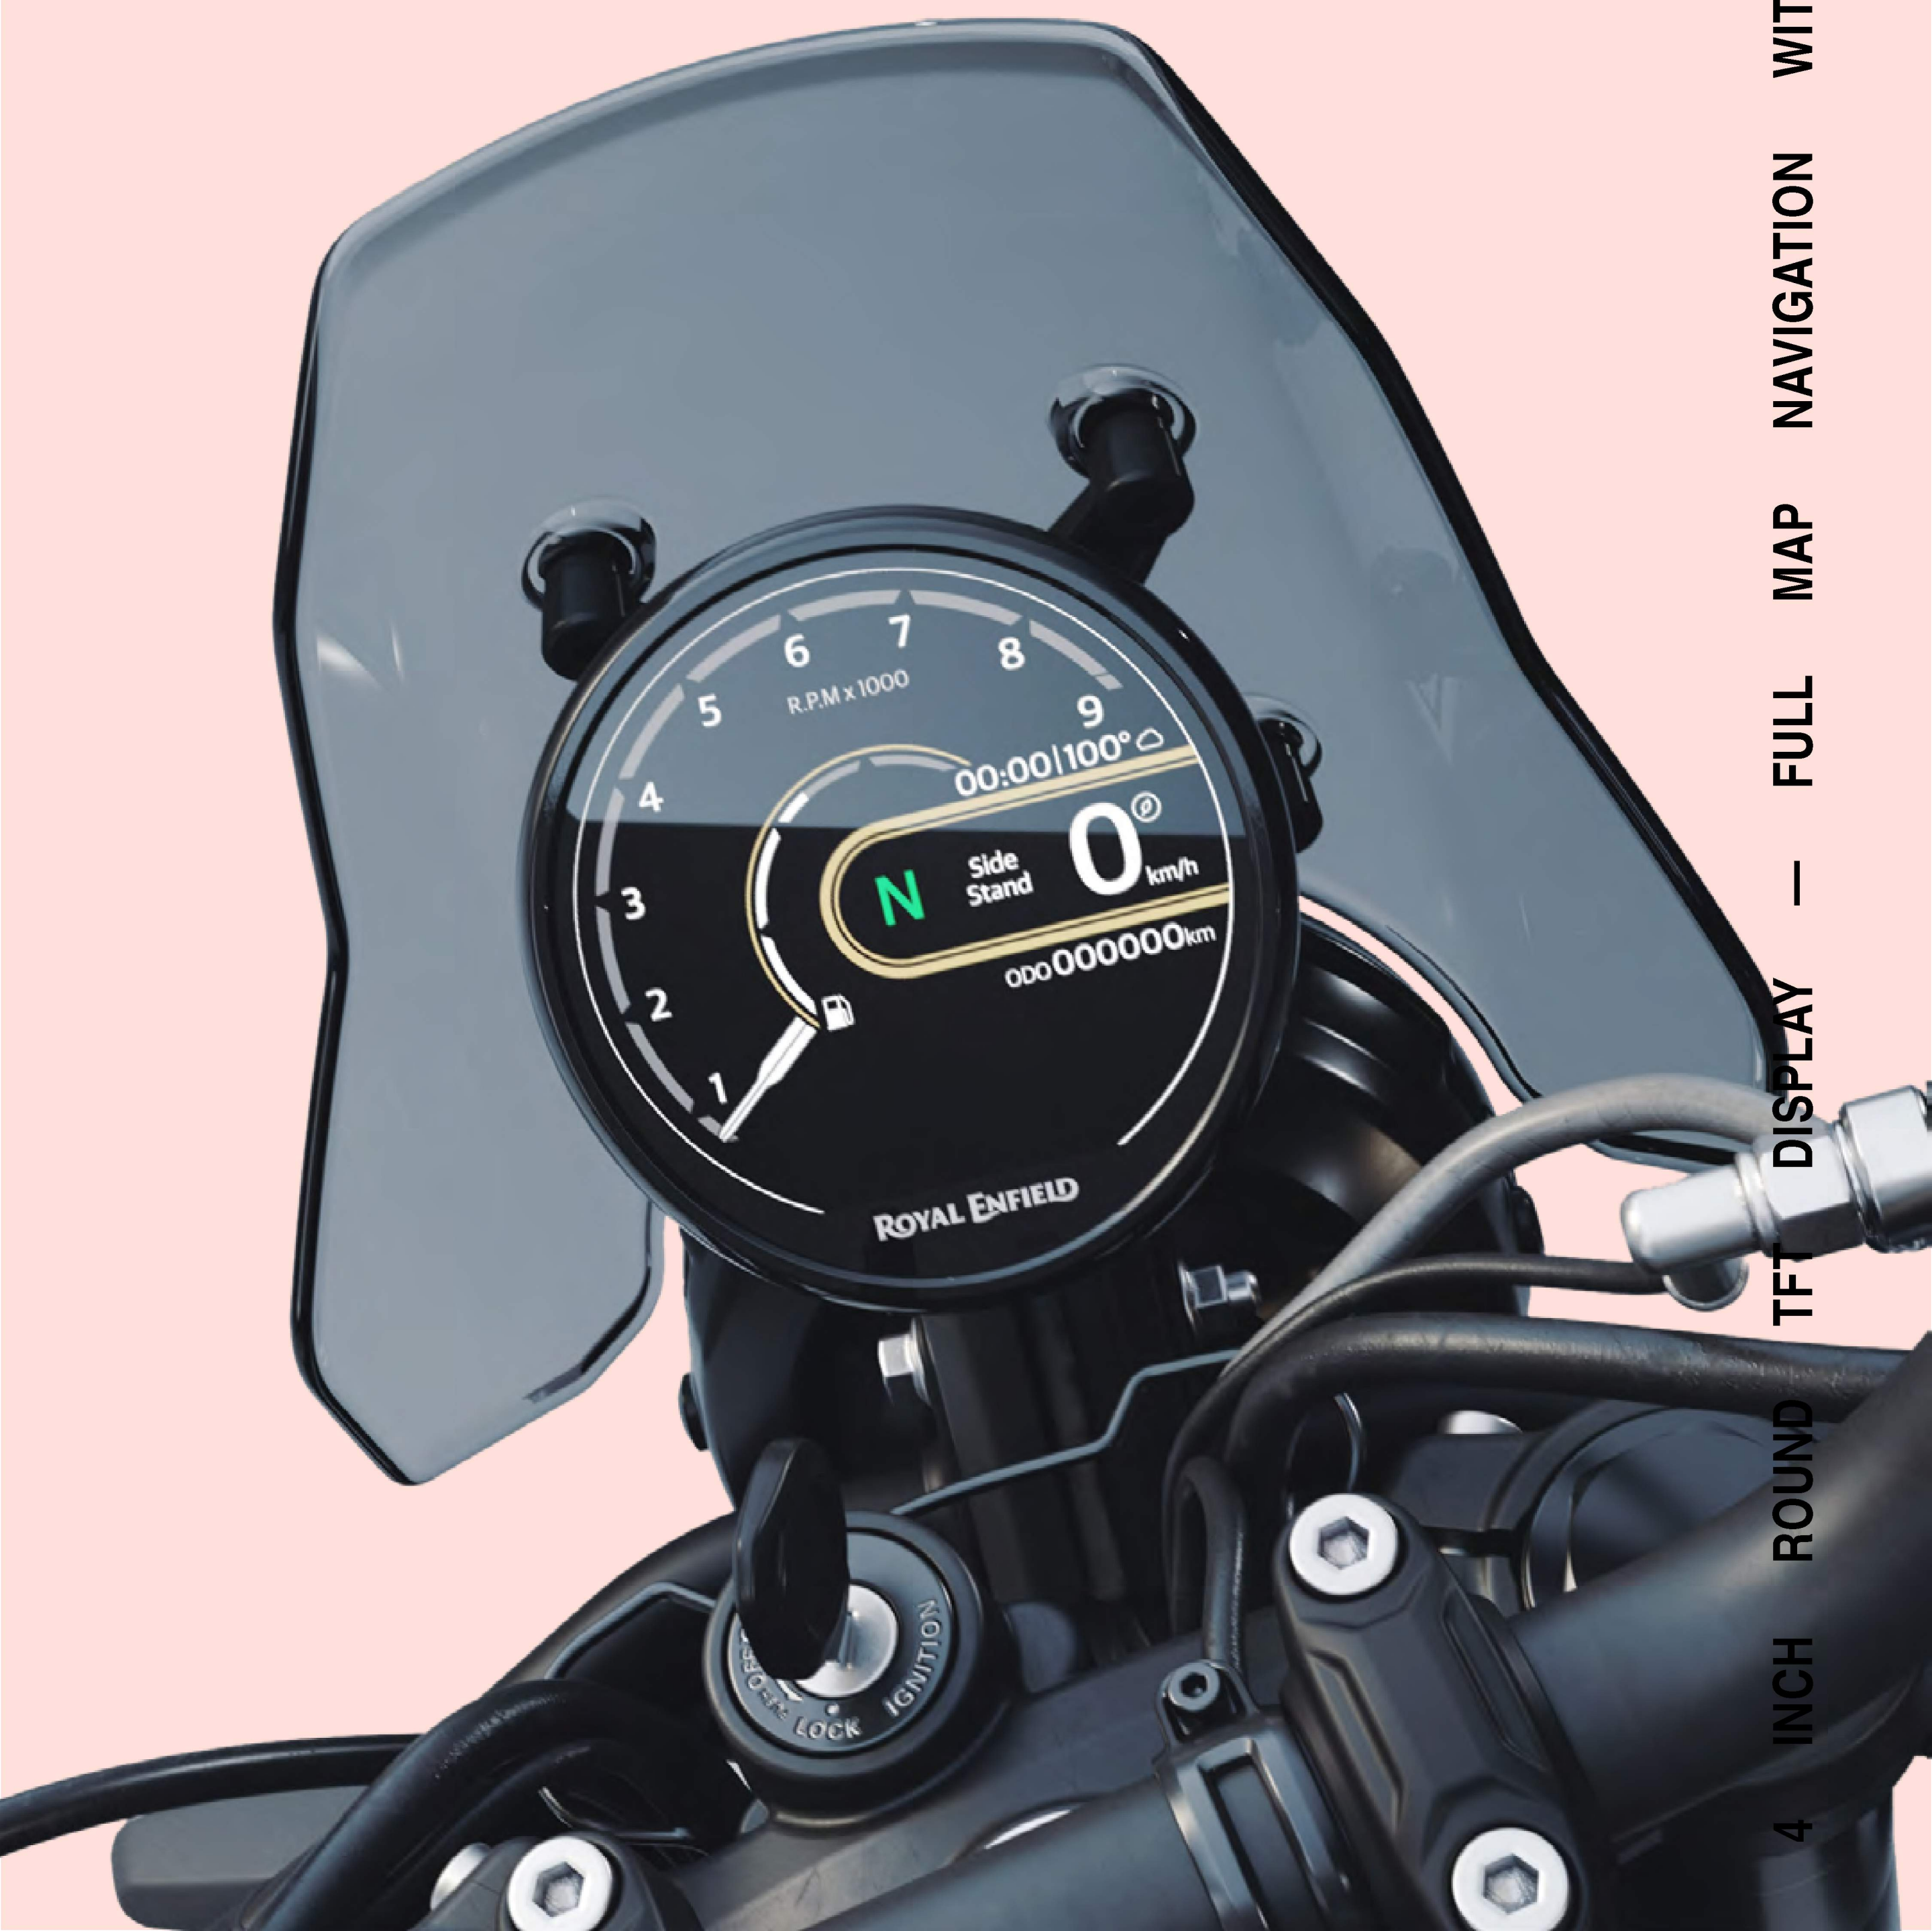

Compact, lightweight and delivers 40hp through its new 6-speed gearbox. But you don't need to know any of that. What you need to know is that like the high-altitude Sherpa that inspired it, this engine has the power to pull you out of a sandy hollow at 5,000 meters above sea level, while being smooth enough to enjoy the 5-hour trip back home afterwards.

What do you need to know? The new TFT display on the Himalayan gives you the important information where you need it, wherever your plan takes you. Full map navigation, phone connectivity and the ability to control music for your adventures.
